Restriction/election

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-6, 34-40, 48-52, 80-86, drawn to systems using context model to encode, classified in class 382, subclass 239.
- II. Claims 7-10, 53-60 and 87-91, drawn to a method of processing the most important coefficients for encoding, classified in class 382, subclass 248.
- III. Claims 11-21, 22-32, and 61-71, drawn to a method of coding the position of the first bit plane in the less important coefficient, classified in class 382, subclass 249.
- IV. Claims 33 and 72, drawn to a method of coding the head or tail bit for each coefficient for each tree, classified in class 382, subclass 281.
- V. Claims 41-47 and 73-79, drawn to a method of determining the average length of codewords and adjusting a compression rate, classified in class 382, subclass 251.

Inventions are related as combination/subcombinations. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination I as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombinations as claimed because I does not require anything claimed in subcombinations II-V, such as coding the position of the first bit plane in the less important coefficient,. The subcombination II has separate utility such as processing the most important coefficients for encoding. The subcombination III has separate utility such as coding the position of the first bit plane in the less important coefficient. The subcombination IV has separate utility such as coding the head or tail bit for each coefficient for each tree. The subcombination V has separate utility such as determining the average length of codewords and adjusting a compression rate.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(I).

If Applicant elects combination I, Applicant needs to further elect following species:

I. Species of a system or an integrate device of wavelet transform with context model (claims 1-6 and 34-40);

II. Species of a system with context model with rate control by determining average codeword length (claims 48-52 and 80-86) ; and Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claim is generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
